Post-War Program

The XXIV Corps in Korea

By LT. GEN. JOHN B. HODGE, USA
Commander of the XXIV Corps in its actions in the Pacific and, until recently, in its occupation of Korea.

KOREA is a rather small peninsula on the eastern coast of Asia, comprising some 85,000 square miles of extremely rugged terrain. Although it is a little-known country to the American people, the prestige of the United States in Asia is largely hinged upon the policy to which we are committed here. This is due to an unhappy state of affairs induced by an arbitrary division of the country, originally made to facilitate acceptance of the Japanese surrender and the repatriation of the Japanese forces from Korea. The agreement was that Russia would occupy that portion of the country north of the 38° parallel, approximating the size of the state of Louisiana, and that the United States would be responsible for the southern zone, roughly equal in area to the state of Indiana. This artificial dividing line for operational purposes has been perpetuated as a political division by the refusal of the Russians to consider recognition of any form of government for a united Korea other than Communist amenable to Soviet domination. Thus the barrier of the 38° parallel has become a frontier of two conflicting ideologies and one which is being closely and apprehensively watched by a large portion of the Asiatic world.

The American occupation force in Korea consists of two major echelons, of which the XXIV Corps is the tactical, logistical, and supporting element, and the United States Military Government in Korea is the body for local government. The mission of the United States forces is much more than military. To put it briefly, our principal mission is to assist the Korean people to prepare themselves for, and help them establish an independent, democratic government for all Korea. To appreciate the magnitude of this task, one must remember that this country was under complete Japanese domination for forty years prior to VJ Day, and had a history of 4,000 years of virtual feudalism before that. The labor pains evoked in the birth of a democracy under such circumstances are acute, and are not mitigated in any way by the artificial division of the country previously mentioned with the accompanying ideological differences.

Of Korea's thirty million people, two-thirds live in the southern, or American zone, which is primarily agricultural. The principal industrial portion of the nation's economy is located in the Russian sphere. Remembering that there is no free movement of goods or services between the peoples of the two zones, and bearing in mind that several millions of South Korea's population are refugees from North Korea and Manchuria or repatriates from other Asiatic areas, it is easy to envisage the problems of administration that have confronted the American command.

In spite of these difficulties, much progress has been, and is still being made. (Please turn to Page 124)

Navy Stabilizing Force
Industrialists Are Told

American Naval ships in European and Mediterranean waters are a "constant stabilizing force in areas where explosive incidents might occur," Secretary of the Navy John L. Sullivan said this week.

Bluntly warning Communists that the United States will take every step deemed necessary to preserve peace, Secretary Sullivan told 1,700 members of Navy Industrial Association at New York that "the sight of the American flag is a reassuring symbol to harassed people."

Secretary Sullivan was joined at the Association meeting by Chairman Arthur M. Hill of the National Security Resources Board, who said the "great technological developments of World War II have shattered our complacency with respect to our two-ocean security. International developments have forced us into the forefront of world leadership."

That the United States would meet squarely the responsibilities of this leadership was emphasized by Secretary Sullivan's declaration that "we know that wisdom and vision and military strength that commands respect can help to preserve the peace, just as stupidity, blindness and weakness can invite the very conflict we seek to avoid."

Secretary Sullivan said "we must give free people everywhere unmistakable evidence of our intention to support them in their struggle, so that the unsteady truce of today may become the stable peace of tomorrow."

For his part, Chairman Hill said of the "unsteady truce" that "we should be entirely unrealistic if we do not take full cognizance of the recent negotiations over the Berlin question. In those discussions, an agreement was reached in Moscow with no less a person than the 'head man' himself, only to be later repudiated."

"Such duplicity," Chairman Hill continued, "must be a warning to the free peoples of the Western World. It means perhaps that we cannot rely on negotiations alone to keep us at peace and insure our security. It means that we must be prepared for the possibility of attack. It means that we must push forward with renewed vigor toward solution of the problems of the defense of this country—both militarily and industrially."

As for the military preparations, Secretary Sullivan described achievements of aircraft carriers and said that World War II experience demonstrated that the carriers are not at the mercy of land-based aviation.

Secretary Sullivan said the importance of the Navy's super 65,000-ton flush-deck carrier, construction of which will begin late this year at Newport News, Va., "cannot be exaggerated."

Striking back at antagonists of aircraft carrier construction, Secretary Sullivan observed that although "certain critics of the Navy have habitually claimed that the aircraft carrier is a highly vulnerable type of ship... particularly at the mercy of land-based aircraft, experience during World War II completely refutes the argument."

Army Promotion Lists

The complete Promotion List of 3,473 permanent Army majors begins on page 132 of this issue of the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL.

Previous issues of the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL have carried the colonel and lieutenant colonel Promotion Lists.

Next week's issue will contain the Medical, Dental, Veterinary Corps, Chaplains Corps, and Professors Promotion Lists.

Service Pay

A tentative draft of the report of the Commission on Service Pay is slated for completion next week and is to be submitted to the Army, Navy and Air Force Secretaries and Chiefs of Staff for comments and recommendations.

Before the final and official report of the Commission is prepared for Secretary of Defense Forrestal, a report which doubtless will provide the basis for all Service pay legislation in the 81st Congress, a conference meeting will be held among members of the Commission, the three Secretaries and the Chiefs of Staff.

At this session, plans for which have not been revealed previously, the top officials of the Army, Navy and Air Force will describe their reactions to the tentative conclusions of the Commission.

Also it is to be assumed that the Secretaries and Chiefs of Staff will utilize this meeting to offer recommendations concerning modification of the report.

In view of the exhaustive studies conducted by Chairman Charles Hook and his associates in obtaining varied viewpoints concerning Service pay problems, it may be that the changes proposed at this meeting, scheduled to be held this month, will be of relatively minor importance.

Following the session with the Army, Navy and Air Force representatives, the Commission will write its final report. In the writing of this report, they will either include or omit the recommendations of the Secretaries and Chiefs of Staff.

Finally, when the document has been completed, it will be submitted to Secretary Forrestal. This is expected to occur late this month or during the first days of November.

Navy Personnel Boards

The Bureau of Naval Personnel has issued instructions to commanding officers of all ships and stations, giving them authority to establish medical and professional examination boards.

Establishment of such boards gives rise to the opinion that selection boards, which have been in the planning stage for several months, will soon be announced. Professional promotion examinations, suspended during the war, will be resumed for Regular Navy officers promoted after 31 Dec. this year.

The text of BuPers Circular Letter 177-48, which authorized the appointment of boards of medical examiners and supervisory boards, was as follows:

"Authority is hereby granted to the (Please turn to Page 126)

Temporary Promotion
for 5,500 AF Officers

Air Force Headquarters this week revealed plans to give temporary promotions by the end of January 1949 to 5,500 Regular, Reserve and Air National Guard officers on active duty.

This means that more than one out of 10 of the total Air Force officer strength of 48,500 will receive temporary advancements to grades of captain, major, lieutenant colonel and colonel.

(Official announcement that 250 lieutenant colonels will be promoted temporarily to colonel confirms a report in last week's issue of the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL.)

Additional temporary promotions will be awarded as follows: 3,000 first lieutenants to the grade of captain; 1,550 captains to major; and 700 majors to lieutenant colonel.

Selection boards composed of senior AF officers will be convened at Washington this month to consider captains, majors and lieutenant colonels for advancement.

As reported previously, the Air Force said that selection boards appointed by the 14 major AF commands will meet in December to review records of qualified officers for advancement to captain.

Promotions to the grades of colonel and lieutenant colonel were frozen in the Spring of 1946, and one year later a similar restriction was applied for temporary promotions to the grades of major and captain.

The AF is establishing criteria for officers to be considered by the selection boards for promotion to the various grades, and has completed work on the eligibility criteria for officers who can be promoted to the grades of colonel and lieutenant colonel.

The following officers will be considered for promotion to the temporary grade of colonel:

All regular permanent grade lieutenant colonels not holding temporary appointments as colonels or higher (including officers holding recess appointments as permanent grade lieutenant colonels).

All other regular officers, regardless of permanent grade, who were reduced from the temporary grade of colonel to the temporary grade of lieutenant colonel without cause as the result of grade readjustment programs.

All non-regular officers serving in the temporary grade of lieutenant colonel who were at least 33 years old or who completed eight or more active Federal commissioned years of service before July 1, 1948.

All other non-regular officers, regardless of age or active Federal commissioned service, who were reduced from the temporary grade of colonel to the temporary grade of lieutenant colonel, without cause as the result of grade readjustment programs.

The following officers will be considered for promotion to the temporary grade of lieutenant colonel:

All regular permanent grade majors not holding temporary appointments as lieutenant colonels or higher (including officers holding recess appointments as permanent grade majors).

All other regular officers, regardless of permanent grade, who were reduced from the temporary grade of lieutenant colonel without cause as the result of grade readjustment programs.

All non-regular officers serving in the temporary grade of major who will be at least (Please turn to Page 128)

Gen. Reckord Reports

Chairman of the Committee on Legislation, Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, this week laid before the National Guard Association a five-point program of activity in the 81st Congress.

General Reckord listed these priority legislative needs for the National Guard: Necessary appropriations for the fiscal year 1950.

Enactment of armory construction legislation, including necessary appropriations.

Enactment of the Common Federal Commission legislation.

Enactment of Universal Military Training legislation with the provision that the pre-trained young men be fed into the Guard to maintain it at the strength desired by the Department of Defense.

The defeat of the Gray Board proposal for federalization of the National Guard.

Additionally, he indicated that the National Guard Association will seek legislation authorizing uniform allowances for NG officers.

In his attack on the Gray Board Report and on other proposals to modify the structure of the Nation's Reserve forces, General Reckord offered these salient observations:

"I recognize in this report a deliberate attempt to cast aside the basic American doctrine of separation of power between state and federal governments. The premise upon which the report is based is false; therefore the report in many particulars is erroneous. The accomplishments of the National Guard in the past two years indicate that, far from failing in our objectives, we are actually at this moment on the objectives set for us by the Congress.

"The Gray Board recommendations are so vital to us and so far-reaching, that if approved by Congress, the National Guard as handed down by our forefathers, will be totally destroyed. The very heart of the National Guard, the National Guard Bureau, would be eliminated. The retirement of the National Guard Officers, recently provided by law, would be repealed. Our very name, 'The National Guard of the United States' would be taken from us and given to a Federal Reserve. The National Guard, notwithstanding its accomplishments in two World Wars, would be relegated to the status of a home defense force.

"We must not permit such a catastrophe. This proposal is so un-American, so unconstitutional, and so stupid, that I propose to this body that we fight it at every turn and if necessary finally rest our case with our friends in Congress who understand and believe in the Constitution of the United States.

The General Staff Study

"I hold General Bradley in high regard, but I take this opportunity to warn him against some of his present advisors. To my knowledge there are people in high positions in the Pentagon Building who did everything possible to influence the Gray Board in its recommendation for destruction of the Guard and the building of a large federal force. It is my opinion that some of these very same people are responsible for a recent general staff study which appeared in the Department of the Army. This study dovetails in with the Gray Board Report. It is pregnant with possibilities for our destruction.

"The National Guard is not a D-Day force. Designating it as such on paper will not make it so. If calling the National Guard a D-Day organization made it in fact such an organization, there would be no need for the Regular Army, except that part known as the Occupation Forces. The National Guard is an M-Day force, and we should insist upon that fact, otherwise we are going to find certain units of the Guard tagged as a D-Day force loaded up with equipment which they cannot house. And if called upon to respond as a D-Day Force, they will not be prepared to do so and the very people who now make the proposal will be the first to deride us and point with scorn to the fact that we did not measure up to our obligation. A force, to be a D-Day force, must be fully equipped and well trained. I venture to say that there is not such a force in the regular establishment today. Why, then, should we permit units of the National Guard to be called a D-Day force?

"It is emphasized in the General Staff Study that our National Guard units be divided into D-Day forces and M-Day forces, and that priority in facilities, in equipment, in training, and other support be given first to the D-Day Forces.

"As a natural reaction to the division of the National Guard into D-Day and M-Day forces, there will be a desire to foster certain units designated as part of the D-Day force.

"We must insure that the law providing equal support to the National Guard of all of the several states in the union be strictly complied with. No division or other unit shall, by reason of being designated as a D-Day unit, receive extra money appropriated by the Congress for construction of armories or other facilities, receive more than their proportionate share of training equipment available, or receive extra money for authorized training drills, either in the form of increased drills or differentiation in pay.

"It must be self evident that if any unit or state were given extra support, then the units so designated would as a consequence, be always by comparison with other units, superior in training and in readiness to perform combat missions. Competition, upon which our way of life is based, would be eliminated in advance."

NG M-Day Training

General J. Lawton Collins, Deputy Chief of Staff, USA, this week told delegates to the 70th Annual general conference of the National Guard Association that "D-Day and M-Day could happen within the same hour", a possibility which has forced revision of mobilization plans.

"Many of the pre-World War II concepts of preparedness are either obsolete or obsolescent," General Collins said.

Describing progress of National Guard training, General Collins revealed plans to prepare approximately two divisions each year for assignment to the mobile striking force.

This is in addition to the six divisions (26th Infantry, 28th Infantry, 31st Infantry, 43d Infantry, 45th Infantry and 49th Infantry) already selected for accelerated training.

To ready these divisions for priority assignments, General Collins said "additional training periods and perhaps the possibility of occasional weekend exercises and perhaps longer summer camp periods should be explored to the limit of available funds."

NGA Honors Gov. Green

The National Guard Association of the United States, meeting in convention in St. Louis, Mo., this week unanimously adopted a resolution conferring to Governor Dwight H. Green (Rep.), of Illinois, honorary membership in the Association, for "his personal leadership" before the Governors Conference of 24 August at Chicago, Ill., and "his masterly presentation and condemnation of the recommendations of the Gray Board to place the National Guard under complete Federal control."

By his personal effort, Governor Green was able to obtain the unanimous support of the Governor's Conference in the adoption of his report and recommendations condemning the Gray Board proposal, the resolution continued, adding that the support thus obtained by the Governor will have a "far-reaching effect upon the nation and the members of Congress in killing forever" this recommendation of the Board.

Report of NG Assn. Pres.

In his annual report to the general conference of the National Guard Association, Maj. Gen. Ellard A. Walsh, Adjutant General of Minnesota and Association President, condemned the Gray Board Report, attacked Army plans for creation of an M-Day Force and criticized implementation of the National Security Act of 1947.

Conforming to expectations and mingling no words concerning the Gray Board proposal to Federalize the Guard, General Walsh said this action "should convince the most skeptical that the professionals will never accept the National Guard, nor will they cease in their efforts to supplant it."

"Should the National Guard relax its vigilance for a moment, or let down its guard," General Walsh warned, "the professionals would strike with all of the force at their disposal and display no compunction in destroying the National Guard."

General Walsh said that "after the experience of the National Guard and the Reserve Officers in two World Wars, we are only too thoroughly conversant as to the helpful and sympathetic attitude of the Regulars. As a result of bitter experience, we know only too well that the leopard cannot change his spots."

Turning to the Army's proposed M-Day Force, General Walsh contended that the National Guard was being subordinated to the Organized Reserve Corps and commented:

"This was another example, in a long list of instances and over a long period of time, to diminish the position of the National Guard in the defense scheme and the general disregard by certain officials of the Department of the Army and Department of Air of the provisions of the Federal Constitution and statutes relating to the National Guard."

With regard to unification progress, General Walsh offered the following concluding observation:

"The National Guard has seen precious little evidence of unification, for administration has doubled. The volume of circulars, and what not, from the Department of the Army, Department of Air and the two Departments acting jointly, has reached an all time high. It would require the services of a full-time staff in each echelon merely to read the contents. Procurement is more complicated than ever before. Prior to unification, oil and gas could be bought under a Navy contract. Now it cannot, and the Department of the Army seemingly, has no such contracts where the National Guard is concerned. United States Property and Disbursing Officers could testify eloquently and profanely on this point, and others for that matter. The National Guard is not quite certain just what the National Security Act of 1947 produced, but it has a suspicion that it did not produce unification."

Secy. Royall at NG Meeting

Declaring his opinion that "war is no imminent," Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall warned this week that "against the lowering and threatening backdrop of world conditions and realities, our military strength on land, sea and air furnishes the brightest and most hopeful light on the stage of peace."

In a speech before the National Guard Association at St. Louis, Mo., Secretary Royall called for full and wholehearted support of our national policy and for the military means which support it.

"In absence of some accidental or unintentional occurrence," Secretary Royall said, "I do not envision a war in the near future, if we remain strong and prepared enough to convince the world of our ability to meet successfully—and to win—any conflict which might be forced on us."

By "the world," Secretary Royall referred plainly to the Soviet Union whose recent activities he described as the operations of an "international shyster."

Secretary Royall said the Soviets today are maintaining more than 4,000,000 men under arms and support a military establishment which would cost America $35,000,000,000 a year.

"And with no threat of aggression against Russia and no strong nation on its border," Secretary Royall continued, "we know that this force is being maintained for some future purpose other than defense."

In an appeal for unity behind the national policy, Secretary Royall said: "There can be no doubt in the mind of any reasonable man that the preachments of one of the candidates for the Presidency has strengthened the hands and wills of our enemies, and has added to the difficulties in Berlin and elsewhere—has added one more element of uncertainty in an already disjunctive world—has hurt the chance of peace, not helped it."

Continuing, Secretary Royall said: "If these men of influence who criticize the past really want to help, let them make realistic suggestions—and on-the-record suggestions about the present and future. No purpose can be served by carping criticism of things behind us except to weaken confidence in our national leaders at a time when that confidence is needed not only at home but across the sea."

Inactive National Guard

Reinstitution of the inactive National Guard, to which both officers and enlisted men will be assigned, was disclosed by Maj. Gen. Kenneth F. Cramer, Chief, National Guard Bureau, this week.

In an address before the National Guard Association at St. Louis, Mo., General Cramer said regulations to implement the inactive NG will be announced shortly.

Officers in Washington explained that personnel of the inactive NG who will be restricted to Army units only, will be required to meet identical standards as officers on active National Guard duty.

Enlistments will be limited to men who served honorably on active duty with the Armed Services for a period of more than 90 days between 16 Sept. 1940 and 24 June 1948.

Officers of the inactive NG, it is reported, will be permitted to transfer in grade from one State to another.

Medical Inspection Tour

The Army is utilizing the services of some Navy doctors in the Pacific and vice versa, Maj. Gen. Raymond W. Bliss, Surgeon General of the Army, reported this week.

Back from a 21-day, 20,000-mile airplane tour of military medical installations in the Pacific and Alaskan areas, General Bliss said the inter-service exchange of doctors has been initiated on an "informal" basis.

However, it is to be expected, that in the near future, action will be taken to insure joint staffing of some major medical installations in the Pacific, particularly at Hawaii and Guam.

General Bliss was accompanied on the inspection trip by Rear Adm. C. A. Swanson, Surgeon General of the Navy; Maj. Gen. Malcolm C. Grow, The Air Surgeon; and Rear Adm. Joel T. Boone, General Inspector, Medical Department Activities, USN, and Executive Secretary of the Committee on Medical and Hospital Services of the Armed Forces.

As a result of this trip, it is anticipated that the Committee will make additional recommendations to Secretary of Defense Forrestal concerning consolidation of medical activities of the Armed Services.

Dedicate Tripler GH

Highlight of the trip was the dedication of the $33,000,000 Tripler General Hospital at Honolulu, described as the world's outstanding hospital.

In his address at the dedication ceremonies, General Bliss said: "This institution is destined to become a research and training center. With a potential source of all those living here, who are under the law entitled to government care, it would present a signal opportunity for the medical services of the Armed Forces, in a joint effort, to make a definite contribution to medical progress."

Implicit in General Bliss' remarks is the likelihood of Naval patients being sent for treatment to the Army's new mammoth hospital.

At his desk in the Pentagon, General Bliss told the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL late this week that the health of Army personnel in the Pacific is excellent, despite the fact that only 80 doctors are available for every 100 jobs.

General Bliss said the shortage of dentists is now the most critical problem confronting the Office of the Surgeon General.

Noting the lack of housing in the Pacific—particularly in the Guam area—General Bliss said this factor is "a definite deterrent to our campaign to recruit additional doctors."

He said young doctors, such as the Army is seeking, become disinterested in military service when they learn that at such locations as Guam facilities for families are woefully inadequate.

General Bliss noted that in most cases Army personnel on Guam must wait approximately 16 months before housing is available for their families.

Visit Guam

After visiting medical installations on Kwajalein in the Marshall Islands, the committee flew to Guam to consult with the Naval governor of the Marianas and inspect the proposed sites for a new hospital. From there the group flew to Japan, visiting the Army's 49th General Hospital and 361st Station Hospital in Yokosuka. Conferences were held with General of the Army Douglas MacArthur, Supreme Commander for the Allied Powers, Commander-in-Chief Far East, and Vice Admiral Oscar O. Badger, Commander, Naval Forces, Western Pacific.

At Adak, Aleutians, the committee visited Navy and Air Force medical installations and inspected the proposed site for a new joint-services hospital. After inspecting Kodiak facilities, the group flew to Anchorage, Alaska, visiting Army General Hospital No. 183, which is jointly used, and conferring with the Commander-in-Chief, Alaskan Theatre and his joint staff. A side trip was made to Fairbanks to inspect Ladd Air Force Base Hospital and the Arctic Medical Laboratories.

In Washington, the committee visited all Army-Navy medical installations in the Seattle-Bremerton-Tacoma area; and at Denver inspected Army Fitzsimons General Hospital, jointly used by the three services.

"Every courtesy was shown to the committee as representatives of the Secretary of Defense by Army, Navy and Air Force commanders in all theatres visited," said Rear Admiral Joel T. Boone, General Inspector, Medical Department Activities, U. S. Navy, and Executive Secretary to the committee, upon his return to Washington. "Commanders of the three services facilitated immeasurably the studies being made by the committee. These field trips have contributed very materially to the wealth of information the committee has gathered for analysis and as background for recommendations to the Secretary of Defense."

This was the third tour of medical installations by the committee since it was established in January. Last February, the committee visited 80 representative installations in Gulf Coast, Southwest, Pacific Coast and mid-West states. In April a survey was made of installations in Panama and the Caribbean Area.

Autonomy For Dental Officers

Revision of Army Regulations to give autonomy to Dental Corps officers in a major command, army, division or other headquarters was reported late this week.

The action, reportedly long sought by Army Dental Corps officers and by the American Dental Association, creates the staff title of "Dental Surgeon" and places the senior Dental Corps officers of above mentioned units under direct responsibility of the commanding general for all professional, technical and administrative matters pertaining to dental health.

Heretofore, the Dental Corps officers have been responsible to the Chief Surgeon in the chair of command.

In his new autonomous status, the Dental Surgeon will have direct control of enlisted personnel and will be responsible alone for efficiency reports on dental officers. Recommendations for promotion also will be made by the Dental Surgeon directly to the Commanding General.

In the Office of the Surgeon General, the Chief, Dental Division will continue to be under supervision of The Surgeon General.

However, in the field, the Dental Surgeon will occupy a similar staff status with the Chief Surgeon.

Following are pertinent excerpts from AR No. 40-15, titled "Dental Corps—General Provisions."

"In a major command, army, division, or other headquarters, including installations, matters relating to the dental service are administered by the dental surgeon of the command. He is responsible directly to the commanding general/officer for all professional, technical, and administrative matters pertaining to the dental health of the command. He will consult with the surgeon of the command on all matters arising in the course of his duties and functions with respect to the dental health of the command."

"The duties of a dental officer as such are three-fold in character, namely:

(1) Professional.—Duties incident to the practice of dentistry, including physical examination for the preservation and promotion of dental health.

(2) Advisory.—Duties pertaining to a dental officer as a staff officer.

(3) Administrative.—Duties pertaining to a commander of Medical Department (dental) personnel and establishment.

c. Duties of a staff dental officer.—There will normally be a staff dental officer for each major command, or installation. Normally, the senior dental officer present for duty with the command or installation will, in addition to his other duties, be the staff dental officer. The basic title as a staff dental officer will be "Dental Surgeon" which, as commonly used in military service, indicates a staff or advisory position rather than a professional qualification, and is analogous to such terms and positions as quartermaster, adjutant, etc. A dental surgeon of a command or installation or any other headquarters will be responsible for the preparation of plans and policies for the progressive development of the dental service, with special reference to measures for the preservation of the dental health of the command by the prevention, treatment, and control of dental diseases, injuries, and deficiencies among persons subject to military control; and for advising measures to place approved plans and policies into effect. The dental surgeon will advise the surgeon in all matters that may have a bearing on the health of the command from a

Memorial to Airmen

As additional contributions for the erection of a monument to the five American flyers shot down over Yugoslavia in 1946 were being recorded, the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL wishes to remind its readers of the patriotic project undertaken by the Hon. Arthur Bliss Lane, former U. S. Minister to that nation.

A total of $1,500 is being sought in individual gifts of $1 to $5 to commemorate the memories of the five American heroes who were killed in 1940.

Contributions should be addressed to Mr. Lane at 2442 Massachusetts Avenue. Ranking Air Force officials are assisting in the memorial campaign.

dental standpoint. His specific duties include the following:

Enlistments for dental service.—Individuals assigned to the Medical Department and who, by their qualifications and training, have been classified and given an SSN peculiar to the dental service, will ordinarily be detailed to duties commensurate with their training and experience and will not be used on other duties except in emergency.

Dental organizations.—a. Dental personnel required by commands, installations (including hospitals), and units will normally be organized as dental units, detachments, dispensaries, or sections under the commanding general/officer of such command (or delegated subcommand), installation, or unit.

b. Dental personnel authorized in T/O & E units (including medical units and hospitals) are directly responsible to the unit commander of such units.

c. Dental officers in command of dental organizations are directly responsible for such organizations. Their duties are similar in character to the commanding officer of other Army organizations."

Army Reorganization and the Army Code

By COL. ALFRED C. BOWMAN, GSC

(Second in a series of articles, the first of which appeared in the issue of 25 Sept.)

LAST week's reader will now understand that the foundation of the Army's organization to be found only in enacted law, temporary or permanent.

If one examines the many changes in Army organization which have occurred within the memory of officers and men still in the services, it becomes apparent that they have uniformly taken place during periods of emergency. Sometimes the alterations were effected through the exercise by the President of powers permanently vested in him by law to be exercised during any emergency. In other cases, temporary powers were created by Congress to enable the Executive to cope with specific wars or crises as they occurred. In each case, the powers were good only "for the duration."

After all other wars the Army has had to revert to a purely statutory type of organization, and unless new law is now enacted to provide otherwise, it must in the summer of 1949 conform to the pattern prescribed by the National Defense Act of 1916.

In this Act, the Congress enacted into law the very Tables of Organization of all Army units and agencies even down to and including the Infantry Company. It specified every organization to which an officer and enlisted man could be assigned. It set forth the number of Infantry, Cavalry, and Field Artillery regiments the Army would have. It established the composition of each regiment, and prescribed the number of officers and men in each grade. It provided for certain "Departments" and "Corps" to serve the regiments, prescribing for each the number and grades of officers and men who might be assigned to it. It was such a rigid organization that even minor changes required new legislation.

Old Provisions Continue

Amendments to the 1916 Act, enacted in 1920 after World War I, brought some relief. At least the Tables of Organization for the Infantry, Cavalry and Field Artillery were deleted. But the law continues to provide for the existence only of these arms, with certain supporting administrative and supply Departments and Corps. And it continues to specify Tables of Organization for the latter.

These provisions of law still remain on the books, and describe the statutory organization to which the Army must revert if new law is not enacted. It is hardly necessary to say that they are both obsolete and inadequate for the needs of 1949.

Flexibility Needed

Preparation of a new organizational statute to replace the National Defense Act of 1916 as amended, is therefore a matter of primary urgency. The only alternatives are (1) to continue the present structure by a further extension of the powers conferred by the Unification Act, or (2) to ask for unrestricted executive discretion of a character which in the past Congress has been reluctant to grant in peacetime. Neither of these alternatives is more than a palliative.

Present thinking points toward the desirability of an entirely new flexible organization statute, affording ample room for reasonable executive discretion, yet providing a sound statutory framework for an Army which will operate efficiently in peacetime, yet be readily convertible into an effective war-making machine.

In addition to the National Defense Act of 1916 as amended, however, there are numerous supplementary statutes enacted over a Century or more, which assume the continued existence of this traditional organizational structure. Some of these are still in the same form as when they first became law. Others have been modified, amplified and changed, either by outright amendment or by executive act, operational evolution, the "exigencies of the Service," administrative interpretation, or otherwise.

The revision and modernization of this mass of law, not avoided organizational but which nevertheless restricts, molds and controls the operation of the Army, is also of great though less dramatic importance in attaining the objective of an efficient, modern Army. How this task will be tackled will be the subject of next week's discussion.

NROTC Candidates

Approximately 2,300 candidates will be selected for the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps program for 1949.

College aptitude tests for the 1949 college scholarships will be given throughout the United States, Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico and the Canal Zone on 11 Dec., this year. Deadline for submitting applications for the tests, which will be given in 550 cities in the 48 states, is 15 Nov. 1948.

Candidates selected will be given a four-year, Government subsidized college education. The Navy Department pays for their tuition, books, and normal college fees, and in addition, provides the student with a $50-a-month living allowance.

Annapolis Alumnus Appointed

The Hydraulic Press Manufacturing Co., Mount Gilead, Ohio, has announced the appointment of Carl J. Lamb as Consulting Engineer.

He was graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy in the Class of 1918.

Mr. Lamb has been interested in Naval activities and has seen 34 years' continuous service in the U. S. Navy and U. S. Naval Reserve. During the recent war, he spent five years in active service with the Fleet and for part of this period was Engineer Officer of the cruiser USS Indianapolis.

Navy Backs Atom Smasher

A 160-foot atom smasher, financed by the Office of Naval Research, will be built by Stanford University within the next three years.

Differing from the cyclotrons, largest atom smashers now in operation, the new machine will be the most powerful linear accelerator ever constructed.

Dr. William W. Hansen, Stanford University microwave laboratory director, will supervise the construction of the giant accelerator which will reach billion-electron volt energies. These energies, according to Dr. Hansen, may make it possible to create protons and neutrons, the components of the atomic nucleus.

The first election ever to be held in Korea was held successfully in the American zone on 10 May 1948 under observation of an eight-nation commission from the United Nations. The Russians refused to allow this commission to enter their zone, and have tried, through every known Communist trick of propaganda, subterfuge and violence, to discredit our efforts. In spite of this, over 92% of the qualified voters in this sector registered and over 90% of those voted. This is a great forward step and a great victory over Communism in our zone. It is also a heartening indication of the deep feeling of political consciousness with which the average Korean is imbued. The election was an inspiring success, in spite of an all-out Communist and dissident group boycott and violence in an effort to prevent it.

The powers of the United States Military Government will be transferred to the new Korean government. It is also hoped that ultimately all Korea may be united. What role our occupation forces may have in Korea in the future is to be determined by the government of the United States based upon decisions of the United Nations.

It is to be hoped that through our efforts we will be able to demonstrate to the Orient and the world that democracy is a living thing, and that the United States is sincere in its belief that every country should have the right to determine its own way of life and its willingness to help this come about.

UNITED STATES ARMYArmy Health Record

Sickness and mortality rates in the Army today are at the lowest peacetime level, Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall said yesterday.

"This fact is remarkable in view of the worldwide deployment of troops, with thousands of U. S. soldiers stationed in areas where existing disease hazards are great," Mr. Royall said.

"Many factors have contributed to this high health level of American troops. For instance, the incidence of venereal disease has been reduced to about one half of what it was in 1946. Common respiratory diseases, such as colds and sore throats, are at their lowest level of prevalence. Likewise other diseases have been less prevalent—notably insect-borne diseases and the dysenteries.

"These splendid improvements are due largely to preventive medicine practices which have been developed and integrated into the military medical program. They include such items as improved measures for insect and rodent control, immunization and maintenance of an optimum diet."

Advancements in military medicine benefit not only soldiers but also civilians, Mr. Royall pointed out. Drugs and techniques which save the lives of soldiers are eventually adopted for general use and may be expected to affect favorably the nation's health.

"The ultimate goal in military medicine is prevention of disease," Mr. Royall said. "Unfortunately this goal is not always obtainable. Where preventive medicine fails, curative medicine and surgery must take over. This has been accomplished in a most manner, since the Army Medical Department is actually a team—a team composed of preventive and curative medical experts.

"Unless the Army's splendid health record of today is maintained in the expanding Army of tomorrow," he continued, "the effectiveness of our troops will be seriously impaired. If the threatened shortage of doctors becomes a reality the whole defense program will be seriously retarded for it is the doctors who are responsible for the present unparalleled standards of health among American troops.

"Between now and the end of next June, more than 3,900 additional medical officers are needed from civilian life to maintain the health of our soldiers. Never before have inducements been greater for doctors to enter the service and never before has the need for them been more vital."

Tribute to Radio Engineers

Members of the Institute of Radio Engineers were paid tribute this week at their western convention meeting in Los Angeles by chiefs of the Armed Services communications branches.

In a message to Walter Kenworth, chairman, Los Angeles section of the IRE, Maj. Gen. Spencer B. Akin, Chief Signal Officer, Army; Admiral Earl E. Stone, Chief of Naval Communications, and Maj. Gen. F. L. Ankenbrandt, Director of Communications, Air Force, jointly praised IRE activities, stating:

"The U. S. Army, Navy and Air Force salute you, the western members of the Institute of Radio Engineers at your 1948 western convention, and congratulate you on your outstanding professional achievements during the past year. Your work has resulted not only in a manifold expansion of the communications and electronics industry but also may become an important cornerstone in the structure of a permanent peace."

Gen. Bradley's Trip Postponed

Previously postponed from mid-September to early October, the Pacific trip of General Omar N. Bradley, Army Chief of Staff, has been indefinitely postponed.

The action was taken to insure that General Bradley would be available for continuing discussions concerning the Fiscal Year 1950 budget and "other Army matters."

Presumably these "other Army matters" referred directly to the tense international situation which has developed since plans for the Pacific inspection trip were first conceived.

Army Records Office to Move

The Adjutant General Regional Records Office located in Long Island City for the past two years has received movement orders transferring the office to the newly established Organization and Installation Records Center in Kansas City, Mo.

Other AG Regional Records Offices affected by this consolidation are located in Atlanta, Ga.; Columbus, O.; San Antonio, Tex., and Oakland, Calif.

Gen. Eisenhower Honored

General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, now President of Columbia University in New York City, this week received an honorary Degree of Doctor of Humane Letters from the Jewish Theological Seminary of America.

In accepting the honor, General Eisenhower declared that our Army "fights to defend our way of life, freedom for each of us to worship God in our own way."

Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff, Sig.-Res., President of the Radio Corporation of America, a principal speaker at the event, chided the "tired intellectuals" for being ready to give up the search for humanity's welfare. "We are only at the beginning of the application of scientific methods to our social and political problems," he declared.

"If the world is to have peace," General Sarnoff continued, "if civilization is to survive, the mind and spirit must be united to harness the forces of nature for the welfare of humanity."

"Man must be master of himself, as well as of science. He must guide and control the modern machine, with a superior and unselfish leadership that seeks to serve the needs of modern society."

In a tribute to General Eisenhower, the R. C. A. President characterized the former Chief of Staff as "a soldier of intellectual integrity, with a love for peace and for his fellow man. That Americans everywhere recognize these outstanding attributes of leadership in General Eisenhower has been attested by the national outpouring of respect and admiration, of loyalty and affection for him."

"General Eisenhower has seen how technological power can be harnessed to achieve victory in war," General Sarnoff said. "He knows, too that Science can be an even greater force in the preservation of peace."

"General Eisenhower's great gifts as a man of action as well as a man of thought, will contribute much of practical wisdom to the solution of our pressing educational problems."

"No man could have entered the educational world with a greater knowledge of so many minds, so many peoples, so many arts, as has General Eisenhower. To obtain effective cooperation in the war, among millions of men and women of diverse training and background, was an achievement unparalleled in history."

General Eisenhower's deeds emphasize, what this Seminary teaches, the virtues which are common to all good men. Let us, therefore, join with him in unifying these social forces, rather than to dwell upon the minor differences which cause misunderstandings and divide people."

"Lend me your ears" says science

It's no accident that you hear so clearly when you pick up your telephone. Bell Laboratories engineers are constantly at work to make listening easy for you.

When these engineers design a method to bring speech still more clearly to your ears, the new circuit is given many scientific tests. Then it gets a final check from a "Sounding Board" like the one pictured above.

This check shows just how the system will work in actual use. The men and women represent you and many millions of other telephone listeners. Their specially trained ears check syllables, words and sentences as they come over the telephones. While they listen, they write down their ratings on the pads in front of them.

The Board members approve only when they are sure that the voice they hear is natural in tone, clear in quality and easily understood. Not until they are certain the circuit will suit your ear is it put into use.

LDO Appointments

Applications for appointments, during the 1949 calendar year, of commissioned officers in the Regular Navy in the Line, Supply Corps or Civil Engineering Corps, in a limited duty status, are now being accepted by the Navy Department.

It is anticipated that this will be the last opportunity for applicants, eligible for permanent appointments to the Regular Navy in a limited duty status in grades above Ensign, to obtain such appointments.

The number of LDO's to be appointed during 1949 will be determined by the computation of vacancies within the various grades as of Jan. 1949, and also upon the estimate of attrition during the forthcoming calendar year.

In order to apply for appointments as permanent LDO's, the applicants must be in a permanent status as a commissioned warrant officer, warrant officer, chief petty officer, or petty officer, first class, of the Regular Navy.

The applicants also must have completed 10 years' active duty, exclusive of Naval Reserve training duty, and must be able to complete 30 years' active Naval service on or prior to attaining the age of 55.

All applications must be received in the Bureau of Naval Personnel not later than 15 Jan. 1949. A selection board will be convened as soon as practicable after the deadline to consider all applicants and recommend those best qualified for commission in limited duty status.

Navy Medics to P-G Courses

Eight Medical Officers of the Regular Navy this week nominated to attend courses of post-graduate instruction were:

Comdr. John G. Stubenbord, III, to a Fellowship in Surgery at Lahey Clinic, Boston, Mass., from Naval Hosp., Charleston, S. C.
Comdr. John D. Walters, to a Residency in Dermatology and Syphilology at U. of Pa. Graduate School of Medicine, Philadelphia, from a Residency in the same Naval Hosp., Philadelphia.

Lt. Comdr. George W. Russell, to a Fellowship in Surgery at Georgetown University Hospital, Washington, D. C., from a residency in the same, Naval Hosp., NMMC, Bethesda, Md.

Lt. Henry G. Gardiner, Jr., to instruction in Neuropsychiatry at U. of Texas Medical Branch, Galveston, from Naval Hosp., Houston, Texas.

Lt. Walter H. Jarvis, Jr., to a Residency in General Practice at Naval Hosp., Portsmouth, Va., from Naval Hosp., Houston, Texas.

Increased Speed for Navy Planes

A new type engine which will increase the power, speed and range of Naval aircraft, has been ordered by the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics. It is known as the "Turbo-Cyclone 18."

According to the Navy, the "Turbo-Cyclone 18" employs a compounding system to recover the energy normally lost through exhaust gases. These gases, when used to operate a series of turbines, generate power which is transmitted directly back to the engine crankshaft. Increased horsepower is developed by the engine without increasing the fuel consumption. Fuel savings throughout the entire operating range are more than 15 percent.

The engine combines the conventional Cyclone 18 reciprocating power plant, which is currently used in the Navy's P2V Neptune and AD-1 Skyraider, with three velocity turbines operated by the exhaust gases.

The compounding elements of the "Turbo-Cyclone 18" fit into the basic engine design with little change in size or appearance. For this reason, the Navy pointed out, little engineering is required to install the new type engine in an airplane that uses the Cyclone 18 engine.

The "blow-down" or low pressure type of turbines used, harness the kinetic energy of the exhaust without requiring large pressure differentials. Consequently, they do not impose high exhaust back pressures on the cylinders and impair the efficiency of the basic engine, but do operate effectively at both sea level and high altitudes. For the same reason, there is no additional stress on the reciprocating parts of the engine. Each of the three turbines is mounted on a quill shaft that transmits the power from the turbines to the engine crankshaft.

USN P-G Faculty Additions

The staff of the U. S. Naval Postgraduate School, Annapolis, Md., has been augmented by the addition of eight civilian faculty members; five in the Department of Electronics and Physics, two in the Department of Mathematics, and one in the Chemistry Department.

The five in the Department of Electronics and physics are: Associate Professors Norman L. Oleson and Albert F. Koehler, Assistant Professors William H. Roadstrum and Earl F. Goddard, and Instructor Robert E. Bauer.

Assistant Professor Brooks J. Lockhart and Instructor Newton F. Spragins have joined the Mathematics Department, and Associate Professor George H. McFarlin is the new member of the Chemistry Department.

The addition of these new members to the faculty brings the active civilian teaching staff at the Postgraduate School to 58, exclusive of four members in the Aerology Department at Monterey, Calif.

Air Force Doctors

Secretary of the Air Force W. Stuart Symington has addressed a memorandum to Secretary of Defense James Forrestal calling for "prompt action" to consolidate those portions of the military-medicine program which lend themselves to such adaptation.

Disclosure of the memorandum coincided with remarks made by Secretary Symington late last week in an address before the Air Force Association at New York City, where he said:

"Proper medical care is one of the most serious problems facing the Military Establishment. As example, whereas the minimum requirement of the Air Force is 1600 doctors by next summer, we will be down to between 300 and 400.

"Accordingly it was and is the suggestion of the Air Force that under such a critical situation, all assignment of doctors be handled in one place, the Office of the Secretary of Defense; pro rated among the three services on the basis of established need.

"If that is not done, surely it is in order for the Air Force to have the right to go out and try for enough doctors to meet its requirements, just as is now done by the other two services."

Unofficially, it is said, the Air Force would prefer to initiate its own recruiting program for doctors, but wants consolidation of other aspects of the military-medical program.

AFA Seeks Air Merger

The Air Force Association has demanded unification of air power in a single command department.

The action was taken at the final session of the Association's second annual convention, which met late last week in New York City.

Mr. Thomas G. Lanphier, jr., Association president, said his organization, composed of former Air Force officers and enlisted men, would press for legislation to merge Naval aviation with the U. S. Air Force.

XF-87 Tests

An extensive test to prove the flight characteristics of the Curtiss XF-87 jet fighter has been completed successfully at Muroc Air Force Base, Calif., by flight test personnel of Curtiss-Wright Corporation's airplane division, and the plane turned over to the U. S. Air Force for its flight check.

This test work, known as the Phase I program, was finished after 56 flights for a total air time of 44½ hours. During this period the airplane was subjected to rigorous checks for stability, control, speed and other flight characteristics. Designed to fly at speeds in the 600-mph class, the experimental model at Muroc attained and surpassed its requirements.

Maj. Richard L. Johnson, USAF, who last week established a new world's speed record of 670.9 mph. In another jet fighter, has taken over as pilot to fly the XF-87 during the Air Force's Phase II activities.

The XF-87 first flew at Muroc 1 March, remaining aloft for 59 minutes. This flight was declared by Air Force magazine to be one of the 10 most outstanding flights of the year, because of its unusual length and performance.

A production go-ahead and schedule of deliveries for 88 planes of the F-87 design has been given Curtiss-Wright by the Air Materiel Command of the U. S. Air Force. Thirty of the 88 will be photo-reconnaissance planes equipped with special cameras and other apparatus for the latest in photographic operations. The 58 fighters will incorporate modern radar techniques which will make the F-87 the first all-weather fighter in service with the Air Force.

AF Commanders To Meet

A meeting of the U. S. Air Force commanders or their principal staff officers will be held at Maxwell AFB, Montgomery, Ala., 5-11 Oct. Both overseas and zone of interior commands will be represented.

Such meetings are held periodically for the interchange of mutual ideas and problems. This will be the first since General Hoyt S. Vandenberg became Chief of Staff last April. The last meeting was held at USAF Headquarters in Washington, 23 Jan.

General Vandenberg, General Muir S. Fairchild, Vice Chief of Staff, and other staff officers from Air Force Headquarters will attend.

AF Comptroller Course

Brig. Gen. E. C. Lynch, Assistant Comptroller of the Air Force, spoke 27 Sept. at the Special Staff School of the Air University at Craig AFB, Ala., officially opening the first advanced comptroller course for Air Force officers and civilians.

The special staff course, the first of its type ever offered in the Armed Services, is the first of a series of 12-week courses for the indoctrination of selected officers and civilians in the organization, functions, and capabilities of the comptroller system.

13 AF Generals Reassigned

Reassignment of 13 United States Air Force general officers was announced this week as follows:

Maj. Gen. Robert W. Douglass, jr., commanding general of the USAF Indocination Division, Lackland AFB, San Antonio, Texas, since July, 1947, will be transferred to headquarters of U. S. Air Forces in Europe at Wiesbaden, Germany.

Maj. Gen. Clements McMullen, chief of staff of Strategic Air Command with headquarters at Andrews AFB, Camp Springs, Md., will become commanding general of the San Antonio, Texas, Air Materiel Area, replacing Maj. Gen. James S. Stowell, who will become commanding general of the Air Training Command's Flying Division, with headquarters in San Antonio.

Brig. Gen. Robert F. Travis, commanding general of the 7th Air Division, Hickam AFB, Oahu, Hawaii, has been named commanding general of the Pacific Air Command, with headquarters at Hickam AFB, succeeding Maj. Gen. Ralph H. Wooten, who is returning to Air Force Headquarters in Washington.

Maj. Gen. Grandison Gardner, who has been serving as a special assistant to the Secretary of the Air Force, has been assigned to the Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Materiel and appointed Director of Air Installations, replacing Brig. Gen. Robert Kauch, who has retired.

Maj. Gen. Francis H. Griswold, formerly commanding general of the 20th Air Force, with headquarters at Guam, has been named Assistant Deputy Chief of Staff for Materiel at USAF Headquarters. Maj. Gen. Alvin C. Kincaid now commands the 20th Air Force.

Brig. Gen. Rosenham Beam, commanding general of Lowry AFB, Denver, Colo., will be assigned to the Caribbean Air Command late in October, succeeding Brig. Gen. Glen C. Jamison, the chief of staff, who is being transferred to USAF Headquarters. Brig. Gen. Warren R. Carter, now at Air Force Headquarters, will become commanding general of Lowry AFB.

Brig. Gen. Thomas C. Darcy, commanding general of Williams AFB, Chandler, Ariz., is being transferred to headquarters of US Air Forces in Europe at Wiesbaden.

Brig. Gen. Roscoe C. Wilson, who has been Deputy Chief of the Armed Forces Special Weapons Project at Washington, has been assigned as Deputy to the Assistant Deputy Chief of Staff, Operations, for Atomic Energy. In this assignment he will serve also as USAF representative to the Military Liaison Committee and as Deputy Chief for Air of the Armed Forces Special Weapons Project.

Brig. Gen. James B. Newman, jr., who was retired in 1946, has been recalled to active duty as special assistant to the commandant of the Air University at Maxwell AFB, Montgomery, Ala.

USAF Warrant Officer Insignia

The following insignia and trim items of uniform are prescribed for wear by warrant officers under the administrative jurisdiction of the Department of the Air Force:

Prescribed Insignia:

Cap Insignia—U. S. coat of arms, in gold color metal, 2-3/8" in height. (Same as authorized for commissioned officers.)

Collar Insignia—"U. S." in gold color metal, 7/16" in height.

Lapel Insignia—Officer-type USAF wing and propeller. (To replace currently authorized Army warrant officer branch insignia.)

Rank Insignia—Chief and junior grade, metal, as currently authorized.

Sleeve Braid—Officer sleeve braid, 3" from end of sleeve.

Temporary Promotions

32 years old, or who will complete seven years or more of active Federal commissioned service before 8 Dec., 1948.

All other non-regular officers, regardless of age or active Federal commissioned service who were reduced from the temporary grade of lieutenant colonel to the temporary grade of major without cause as a result of grade readjustment programs.

Although the Air Force is authorized to build up to an officer strength of 69,306, budget restrictions will limit the USAF to 58,269 officers during Fiscal Year 1949 ending June 30, 1949. Of the approximately 48,500 officers now in the Air Force, 181 are general officers, 1,500 are colonels; 3,200 are lieutenant colonels; 6,500 are majors; 14,700 are captains; 20,000 are first lieutenants; and 2,000 are second lieutenants.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1948

"A heavy munitions or military aircraft industry simply cannot be created overnight."—GENERAL J. LAWTON COLLINS, USA.

THE Kremlin may as well know right now that the United States will not tolerate further the buzzing of American transport planes by Yak combat fighters on the air route to Berlin. There is seething indignation not only in the Air but in all circles in Washington at the manner in which the Russian planes are conducting a war of nerves upon our pilots and crews, who are carrying out the justifiable policy of our government in supplying food and coal to the men, women and children resident in the American, British and French zones. Months ago Red officers and Red newspapers warned that they would embarrass our air lift in every conceivable way, including target practice over and maneuvers by air squadrons in our Air lanes. We did not believe at the time these threats would be activated, but now we find that this is being done. It is a tribute to the Air personnel engaged in this operation that there has been no faltering, and that with the most amazing rapidity and efficiency supplies are being delivered in sufficient quantities to take care of the population for which we are responsible. Our transports carry no weapons, and, therefore, are at the mercy of any trigger-happy gunner who is a member of a Russian crew. To be flying through the air at around 180 to 200 miles per hour as our transports do and then to have a Yak fighter of almost double the speed swoop down upon one of them can be regarded only as an offensive act designed to break the morale of our personnel. That, they can be assured, they will not do. We have made vigorous protests which are getting us precisely nowhere. The time has come in the opinion prevailing in Washington, for us to take positive steps to put an end to these unfriendly acts. We will, of course, bring Russian policy in this matter to the attention of the Security Council of the United Nations. The Russians should not forget we have numerous combat planes which are superior to the Yaks, and we rather think that unless this practice stops, some of them will appear in our air lanes and buzz the Russians in return. Certainly we have as much right to have our combat planes fly our air lanes as the Russians have, and also the right of self-defense justifies us in protecting our own lives and property. In connection with our policy, which Messrs. Stalin and Molotov should not forget, are the warnings implicit in the speeches made in Paris by General Marshall and only this week in St. Louis and New York by Secretaries Royall and Sullivan, respectively.

PROMINENTLY mentioned for Secretary of Defense in the Dewey cabinet in the event of a Republican victory in the November election is Representative James W. Wadsworth of New York. While his personal choice would probably be to remain in Congress where he has served with such distinction, his selection to head the National Military Establishment would be welcomed by members of the Armed Forces. Mr. Wadsworth served twelve years as United States Senator from New York and during part of that time was chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs. While head of that important committee he won the admiration of his colleagues and of the Army for his statesmanship and his specialized knowledge of the complex problems of National Defense. Subsequently he was elected to the House of Representatives where he has rendered distinguished service for many years. He is a recognized expert on national security. His long public service has been characterized by his industry, his devotion to duty and his nonpartisan approach to all matters affecting the national welfare. His admirers in the Armed Forces consider him ideally equipped for Secretary of Defense, but in any case they and those in Washington who know of his capacity are anxious that he shall be reelected to the House so that his knowledge of and experience in national and international affairs shall be available to the country in this time of grave peril.

OFFICERS of the Army and Air Force will welcome the long-delayed decision to resume temporary promotions next month. The proposal to make future temporary advances in rank on a Service-wide basis, rather than to restrict them to local Table of Organization vacancies, is thoroughly sound. It will make it possible to do justice to many fine officers whose well-earned promotions have been deferred far too long. Under the new regulations Regular and Reserve officers on active duty will be eligible for advancement in proportionate numbers, consideration being given to seniority, age and demonstrated efficiency. During the war temporary promotions were necessarily based largely on vacancies existing within a command. For some officers advancement was rapid, while the promotion of others equally qualified was much slower because of lack of vacancies within their organization. Following the cessation of hostilities most temporary promotions for officers remaining on active duty were stopped and many of those occupying the higher temporary grades were demoted. The cessation of promotions was particularly hard on the junior officers. The cost of living has rapidly risen, but there has been no material increase in the pay and allowances of officers. Advancement in rank, with a corresponding increase in income, will be gratefully received by those who are trying to keep the family budget within the modest pay of our commissioned personnel. With the expansion of the Army and Air Force making new demands on our officers, and with the world situation extremely critical, it is of the highest importance to keep up the morale of our troops. One of the best ways to advance and maintain the esprit of soldiers and airmen of all ranks is to assure them that meritorious service will be promptly recognized through appropriate promotions.

Service Humor

No Elephant?

A soldier walked into a bar and ordered a beer and a straight whiskey. To the bartender's amazement, the soldier drank the beer, carefully unbuttoned his pocket and emptied the whiskey into it.

"What are you doing there?" asked the amazed bartender.

The Joe snorted, "I'm minding my own business and I suggest that you do the same. I ought to climb across the bar and take a crack at you."

With that, a little mouse lifted its head out of the G. I.'s pocket, eyed the bartender belligerently through bloodshot eyes, and snapped: "Yeah, and that goes for your cat, too."

Check and Double Check

A young Chinese student was living in a boarding house which was anything but clean. In view of the dirty premises he was greatly surprised one day to find a card tacked on the front door by his landlady.

CLEAN YOUR FEET, it said in big letters.

The Chinese student took a pencil and on the same card, immediately underneath, he wrote, ON GOING OUT.

K. E. P.—Technical Manual 12-427 covers the duties of both MOS 290 and MOS 502. It can be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C.

A. D. N.—Under Section 204, of Title II, Public 810, 80th Congress, a retired enlisted man who has been advanced to a commissioned grade on the retired list, is given an opportunity to retain his status as a retired enlisted man of the Regular Army.

L. D. M.—To obtain the benefits authorized by the GI Bill of Rights a soldier must have been separated or retired from the Army. An officer who was integrated into the Regular Army from Reserve Officer status, and who has had no break in his active service is not authorized these benefits at the present time.

W. B. F.—Under the provisions of AF Regulation 36-5, 16 June, 1948, Air Force officers may apply for commissions in the Regular Air Force. Applications must be submitted before 1 October, 1948.

In the Journal

One Year Ago

Three general officers who saw service in both World Wars retired from the Army 30 Sept. in their present ranks. They are Lt. Gen. Lucian K. Truscott, Jr., Maj. Gen. Robert W. Hasbrouck, and Brig. Gen. Ernest J. Dawley.

10 Years Ago

Much attention is expected to be given by Congress and Administration leaders during the coming year—to the military development of Alaska. While the Army has maintained a small post in the northern territory and the Navy for the past few years has operated ships and planes in North Pacific waters, virtually nothing has been done to make Alaska the protective barrier it could be.

25 Years Ago

A plan is being developed for night flying off the USS Langley. The system of landing and launching airplanes on and off ships will be developed on this vessel so that it can be installed in as near as possible a perfected condition on the new airplane carriers, cruisers and other ships which are to carry an air force.

50 Years Ago

The Board of Visitors to the Naval Academy made the sensible suggestion that the efficiency of the Board will be increased by the appointment of a portion of the Board for two or more terms, so that at least a portion of the Board may be familiar with the duties it is expected to perform. (The principle of the suggestion was finally enacted, by the 80th Congress, for West Point and Annapolis Boards.)

80 Years Ago

It will be some time before our Army, like that of Great Britain, becomes an aristocratic institution, officered chiefly by the younger sons of wealthy houses. As long as the road to promotion is kept open for enlisted men, a certain proportion of good men will always be found in the ranks of our Army.

SERVICE NEWS AND GOSSIP

Foreign Affairs—Formal charges have been filed with the Security Council of the United Nations at Paris by the United States, Great Britain and France, alleging that the blockade of Berlin by Soviet Russia constitutes a threat to world peace. This is the most serious international crisis that has faced the world since the surrender of Germany and Japan. Its outcome is unpredictable. There is a serious possibility, though as yet not a probability, that the dispute may lead to a new world war. There is also a strong possibility that the disagreement may cause a schism in the United Nations, as indicated by British Foreign Minister Bevin, resulting in regional blocs, definitely unfriendly to each other. There is also a possibility, at present somewhat remote, that the matter may be amicably adjusted. None of the spokesmen of the great powers has attempted to minimize the gravity of the situation.

The impasse with Russia resulted from the intransigence of the Soviet leaders after a completely satisfactory agreement had apparently been reached with Marshal Stalin by the representatives of the western powers. After the United States, Great Britain and France had agreed on the issuance of new currency for the western-occupied zones three months ago the Soviet government cut all rail, water and highway communication between western Germany and Berlin, apparently with a view to preventing the use of the new currency in Berlin. The western powers were forced to supply food and fuel to the people of their sectors of Berlin by means of cargo planes. Much to the surprise of the Russians, and probably of the Germans as well, the airlift was a complete success.

At the same time representatives of the western powers at Moscow registered a strong protest which resulted in a series of prolonged conferences. An agreement was reached more than a month ago, and personally approved by Stalin, whereby the blockade would be immediately lifted and Soviet marks would be used exclusively in all sectors of Berlin under four-power supervision. This agreement was transmitted to the four military governors at Berlin for completion of technical arrangements. To the amazement of the western powers, Marshal Sokolovsky, the Soviet military governor, refused to carry out the agreement and raised a new point involving Soviet control of commercial air freight and passenger traffic into Berlin, reopening a question that had been settled by the four powers nearly three years ago. Reversing its previous position the Moscow foreign office upheld the position taken by Sokolovsky, an indication that the Berlin representative had received private instructions to sabotage the agreement. This left the western powers no recourse but to present the matter to the United Nations.

The devious conduct of the Russians throughout the negotiations tends to revive the rumor voiced some months ago that Marshal Stalin is no longer in supreme control at the Kremlin. In his negotiations with the western powers on this question he seems to have been much more conciliatory than Foreign Minister Molotov. He was in complete accord with the agreement that was subsequently sabotaged. This suggests that the erstwhile dictator may have been overruled by the Politbureau. There is a strong suspicion that Russia has deliberately stalled negotiations with two purposes in view. One may have been to await the outcome of next month's Presidential election in the United States, in the belief that a possible change in administration might bring with it a tendency toward appeasement. The other purpose may have been to see whether or not our flyers could continue to supply millions of Germans in adverse winter weather.

In either case Russia is certain to be disappointed. Both Mr. Truman and Mr. Dewey have made it clear that no appeasement policy will be adopted irrespective of the result of the election. They are standing shoulder to shoulder in support of the actions of the western powers. Furthermore the overwhelming majority of the American people is solidly behind our present foreign policy. This is evidenced by the editorial assertions of practically all American newspapers of varying shades of political opinion.

During the past week Soviet fighters in our designated air corridor have flown close to some American cargo planes on the Berlin airlift, buzzing them in a threatening manner in an obvious effort to disconcert the pilots of our defenseless transport planes. A strong protest has been registered with the Soviet authorities against such tactics, but our airmen feel that it will be barren of practical results.

Berlin is an enclave entirely surrounded by Soviet-occupied territory. The troops of the western powers inside the city are few in number and could be quickly overrun by the vastly superior Soviet forces in the city and immediately adjacent to it. Berlin is of no direct military importance to the western powers. However, it is of tremendous psychological importance. The presence of our troops and those of Great Britain and France constitutes a symbol of western democracy recognized by all Europeans. Their withdrawal under Soviet pressure short of war would be regarded as a desertion of the principles we fought to maintain. The people of Berlin are overwhelmingly anti-Communist. Nevertheless if the troops of the western powers are withdrawn from Berlin the Communists with Russian support would undoubtedly attempt to gain control of all governmental functions of the city.

At the Assembly of the United Nations the great majority of the countries represented made it clear that their sympathies were entirely with the western powers in this critical controversy. Secretary of State George C. Marshall in a speech notable for its moderation, warned Russia that patience must not be mistaken for weakness. The fiery Ernest Bevin of England declared that if the "black fury of atomic war" were launched Russia alone would be responsible. Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France called the Berlin blockade an act of force and Premier Paul-Henri Spaak of Belgium declared that the Soviet government maintained in other countries fifth columns more dangerous than those of Hitler. Each of these speakers was given a great ovation by the delegates.

In an inflammatory address Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky directly attacked Secretaries Forrestal and Royall and other United States officials, accusing them of planning atomic attacks on Soviet cities. He said Mr. Forrestal overstepped all bounds by insisting on increasing the Army and on creating powerful air forces capable of inflicting blows far beyond existing outer bases. Mr. Vishinsky proposed an armament reduction of one-third by all principal powers and international control of the atom bomb. Probably to his surprise his proposals were accepted as a basis for discussion.

The conflict between Russia and the western powers monopolized the discussion at the Assembly, but plans were made to take up a number of other questions, among the most important of which was the settlement of the Palestine question proposed by the late Count Bernadotte. The recommendations of the late mediator are widely supported and seem likely to be adopted, though they are opposed by the Arab states and in some particulars by Israel.

The defense ministers of France, Great Britain, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg agreed in Paris on a defense policy and formed a permanent organization to deal with problems of production and equipment. Presumably the United States will be requested to assist in the procurement of materiel. In this connection it is understood that the State Department plans to request the next Congress to approve a new lend-lease program, whereby the United States could assist in supplying these countries with military equipment. Field Marshal Lord Montgomery of Great Britain has been selected as supreme commander of the combined forces of the five countries. It is understood that General Alphonse Juin of France will command the land forces, with Fleet Admiral Lord Cunningham of Great Britain leading the naval units and Air Marshal Lord Tedder, also of Great Britain, as chief of the combined air force.

In Washington the defense departments and related agencies are watching with alert interest the progress of the discussion of the Russian crisis before the United Nations. General Omar N. Bradley, Army Chief of Staff, has cancelled his projected trip to the Far East in order to be available here for budgetary and other discussions of Army matters.

In China Nationalist forces suffered a severe blow in the loss of the important city of Tsinan to the Communists. Not only has the Chinese government lost one of its principal strongholds, but Chiang Kai Shek has suffered a blow to his personal prestige since he had actually directed the defense of the city.

New Army Reorganization Proposed—General Staff studies of Army reorganization which have been continuous for several years are reported to have progressed to a point where tentative proposals have been submitted for consideration by the Chief of Staff. General Dwight D. Eisenhower was recently in Washington from New York at the request of General Omar N. Bradley, Chief of Staff, to discuss the proposed changes. No announcement has been made of the trend of the studies that have been under way; however, it is rumored that in the projected reorganization further efforts will be made to reduce the emphasis on branch consciousness. Some of the Army leaders, including General Eisenhower, are known to favor a plan whereby there could be the greatest possible flexibility in the assignment of officers, irrespective of the branch in which they were originally commissioned. Under such a proposal only certain specialists, such as medical officers, chaplains, and probably judge advocates, could be certain of permanent assignment to duty with a particular branch, although consideration would, of course, be given to their training, experience and skill in special lines.

"Operation Vittles" Personnel Commended—Army commendation ribbons have been presented today to 13 Transportation Corps officers and enlisted men for their "outstanding performance of duty" on the Berlin Air Lift. The awards to three officers are for their efficient organization and control of Transportation Corps activities at Rhine-Main and Wiesbaden Air Bases. Ten enlisted men are cited for demonstrating conspicuous efficiency and leadership as supervisors, dispatchers, section leaders, drivers and mechanics.

Cited were: Lt. Col. Robert L. Ford, Maj. Andrew P. Flanagan, Capt. Raymond A. Brausch, Sgt. 1st Cl. John D. Ford, Sgt. 1st Cl. Herman J. Ros, Sgt. James E. Eubanks, Sgt. Thomas L. Tyler, Sgt. Damon P. Herd, Cpl. Rolland E. Mayo, Pfc. Joseph L. Shockey, Pfc. Julius Robertson, Pfc. Richard Langley, and Pfc. Willie Yates.

G. A. R. Convention Musters Six—The 82d Annual Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, meeting this week in Grand Rapids, Mich., mustered six Union Army Veterans of the Civil War, four of whom opened the meet with a memorial service while the other two rested in their hotel rooms after exhaustive trips by air. Combined ages of those attending totaled 616 years, with James A. Hard, of Rochester, N. Y., the oldest at 107. Others were John H. Grate, 103, of Atwater, Ohio, Chaplain-in-Chief; Theodore A. Penland, 99, of Portland, Ore., Senior Vice Commander; William H. Osborn, 104, of Joplin, Mo.; Albert Woolson, 101, of Duluth, Minn.; and Charles L. Chappel, 102, of Long Beach, Calif.

Air Force Uniforms—Indication that the Air Force in the budget for Fiscal Year 1950 will seek funds for distinct uniforms is contained in a recent address by Secretary of the Air Force W. Stuart Symington before the Air Force Association at New York City.

Secretary Symington said: "Just as the Army has the right to be recognized as soldiers, the Navy as sailors and the Marines as Marines, so have airmen the right to look like airmen."

Inspects Alaska Communication System—Maj. Gen. Francis L. Ankenbrandt, Director of Communications, U. S. Air Force, recently inspected Alaska Communication System installations in Seattle, Wash., during a one-day stopover on his return to Washington, D. C. from an inspection of Air Force communication installations in Alaska. During his inspection tour of Alaska, General Ankenbrandt also visited Alaska Communication System installations at Anchorage and Fairbanks.

Reservists from Industry Help Signal Corps—Representatives of two major communications firms who are in the ORC have returned for two weeks' active duty to exchange views with staff officers of the Personnel and Training Division of the Office of the Chief Signal Officer. Col. George P. Dixon of New York City, a vice president of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp., has just left the Pentagon. In his place is Maj. George W. Beyea, also of New York City, an installation foreman of the New York Telephone Co. and commanding officer of the 66th Signal Operations Battalion, a reserve unit sponsored by the New York Telephone Co. under the Army's industrial affiliation program.

Army Judge Advocate General's Department—Lt. Col. Clio B. Straight, JAGD, has been assigned to the Claims and Litigation Division, JAGO. Prior to his recent return to the United States and since May, 1946, Lt. Colonel Straight was Deputy Judge Advocate for War Crimes in the European Command, where he supervised the investigation and trial of 1,672 war criminals.

Lt. Col. John S. Dwinell, JAGD, formerly Chairman of Board of Review No. 3, JAGO, has departed for a new assignment with Hq. First Army. Col. Wharton Funk, JAG-Res., who was recalled to active duty for a short period to work on a special project in JAGO, has reverted to inactive status and has returned to the private practice of law in Seattle, Wash.

During the past three weeks, Lt. Cols. Nicholas B. Voorhis, Thayer Chapman and Ernest B. Skinner, all of JAGO, have appeared in U. S. District Courts and

U. S. Circuit Courts of Appeals in sixteen cases involving petitions for writs of habeas corpus filed by military prisoners in Ohio, New York, Pennsylvania, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, and the District of Columbia.

European Command—Character guidance councils will be established in EUCOM to carry out a Department of the Army directive designed to encourage the development of moral, spiritual and psychological approaches to self-discipline in the Army.

The new program, which is founded upon the assumption that the Army has an obligation to the parent of the youthful soldier to duplicate the wholesome influences of the home and the community, so far as practicable under conditions of military service, will be guided by a council headed by Brig. Gen. William E. Bergin, EUCOM Director of Personnel and Administration.

Working with the group will be character guidance councils at Major Commands. Membership on these committees will include the Executive Officer, Personnel Officer, Surgeon, Provost Marshal, Special Services Officer, Chaplain, Venereal Disease Control Officer and any other officers deemed advisable.

Air's Unprecedented Flights—Disclosure that the XS-1 has been flown "hundreds of miles faster than the speed of sound" and that a jet-bomber, presumably the Boeing B-47, had run away from its jet fighter escorts was made late last week by Secretary of the Air Force W. Stuart Symington.

His announcement before the Air Force Association at New York indicates that the XS-1, which is dropped from the belly of a B-29 at high altitudes, probably traveled between 850 to 1000 miles an hour during its brief speed test. At 40,000 feet, the speed of sound is approximately 660 miles an hour.

The flights were made by Capt. Charles E. Yeager and by Capt. William Fitzgerald, both of the USAF.

Navy Nurse Corps—Fourteen nurses have been selected to report for the class of newly commissioned Nurse Corps officers for indoctrination to be held at the Naval Hospital, Great Lakes, Ill., 1 Oct. If found physically qualified, they will be issued appointment as Ensign, NC, USN: Martha L. Bayette, Matthews, N. C.; Pauline M. Chisholm, Cleveland, Ohio; Daisy L. Deem, Parkersburg, W. Va.; Marilyn Ewing, New Cumberland, W. Va.; Marcia O. Graham, Cleveland, Ohio; Margaret B. Karas, McKeesport, Pa.; Louise A. Morin, Nashua, N. H.; Mary A. O'Connor, Warren, Pa.; Patricia A. Roe, Rice Lake, Wis.; Gloria J. Sterling, Long Beach, Calif.; Lillis L. Stoops, Shellburn, Ind.; Betty J. Streeb, Detroit, Mich.; Lucy I. Tarvin, Odon, Ind.; and Ethel I. Wright, Denver, Colo. In addition, the following have been appointed as Ensigns in the Reserve Medical Corps and will report to Great Lakes for indoctrination: Harriet L. Hastings, Port Gibson, Miss.; and Eloise A. Salmon, Rochester, Minn.

Army Chaplain Corps—The Chief of Chaplains, Maj. Gen. Luther D. Miller, has been awarded a certificate of commendation by the War Assets Administration for his outstanding services and position of great responsibility in the disposal of surplus Army Chapels. The presentation was made by War Assets Administrator Jesse Larson in Chaplain Miller's office, 29 Sept.

Recent visitors to the Office of the Chief of Chaplains included Chaplains (Lt. Col.) Leslie A. Thompson, Ft. Bragg, N. C.; James C. Bean, Hq. Second Army, Ft. Meade, Md.; and James T. Wilson, Hq. Third Army, Ft. McPherson, Ga.

A meeting of the Chaplains of the Far East Command was held 9 Sept. at the Yokohama Command Chapel where plans for the Fall and Winter schedules were made and the details worked out for the coming Christmas season. Present were Chaplains (Maj.) James H. Martin, (Capt.) Ernest F. Kendle, (Capt.) Henry D. Sutton, (Capt.) William B. Crocker, (Capt.) Beverly M. Ward, and (Capt.) Gomer S. Rees. Refreshments were served after the meeting.

Air Force Chaplains—Sixty airmen from Bolling, Andrews, Langley, Mitchel, Wright-Patterson, Westover and Lockbourne AF Bases attended a three-day Catholic lay retreat this week at the Bishop Malloy Retreat House, Jamaica, L. I., N. Y. Chaplain (Lt. Col.) John J. Wood, Deputy Chief of Air Force Chaplains, was in charge.

Air Force Theater—A permanent 1000-seat theater, cost of which is not to exceed $450,000, will be built at Maxwell AFB, Ala. Construction may begin within 60 days.

WAF Assignments—The Air Force has declared that there will be no restrictions as to the maximum number of WAFS who may be assigned to any one installation. However, it is not believed that any WAFS will be ordered to bases where less than 50 female airmen will be on duty.

With regard to WAF warrant officers, Air Force officials emphasize that identical criteria will be used as for regular male Air Force warrant officers.

Army Field Forces—General Jacob L. Devers, Chief, Army Field Forces, continuing his cross-country tour of various Army installations, this week visited Ft. Bliss, Texas; Los Angeles, Calif.; Ft. Ord, Calif.; Albuquerque, N. M.; and Colorado Springs, Colo. Included in General Devers' party are Maj. Gen. John M. Devine, Deputy Chief; Col. Vance Batchelor, Assistant Chief of Intelligence; Col. W. A. Samouce, Information Officer; Col. R. R. Hendrix, Training Section; Lt. Col. L. A. Trautman, Logistics Section; Maj. E. L. Meggs, Training Section, and Maj. J. E. Rossell, Aide.

Major General Doyle O. Hickey, Assistant Chief for Developments, and Maj. D. G. Cogswell, Developments Section, inspected the R-15 Helicopter at the Bell Aircraft Corp., Niagara Falls, N. Y., 28 Sept. After the inspection, they proceeded, in a liaison plane piloted by Major Cogswell, to Cleveland, Ohio, to attend the annual inspection of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics Flight Propulsion Research Laboratory at the Cleveland Municipal Airport.

Col. J. A. Smith, Jr., Logistics Section, visited the San Diego, Calif., Naval Base, 28 Sept., to observe logistics functions of the Pacific Fleet Amphibious Demonstration. Col. C. F. Fowler, Budget and Fiscal Officer, was in Washington, D. C., 20-23 Sept., to confer with the Office, Director of Organization & Training, in connection with budget matters.

Col. Paul Elias, CAC, visited the Office, Chief, Army Field Forces on 21-22 Sept., for orientation in connection with his assignment as liaison officer to John Hopkins University, Applied Physics Laboratory.

Col. Ralph H. Wiltamuth visited Army Field Forces Board No. 3, Ft. Benning, Ga., 20-22 Sept., for the purpose of obtaining coordination on development test items of equipment.

Col. Nelson M. Lynde, Ordnance Officer of the Armored Center, Ft. Knox, Ky., is at Ft. Monroe, Va., for two weeks temporary duty with the Ordnance Section.

The style show, dubbed "From Commissary to Military Ball," was chairmanned by Mrs. Lesley Ashburner, assisted by Mesdames Frank Allen, Jr., Samuel D. Sturgis, James V. Cole, William L. Thompson, Charles L. Bolte, Thomas S. Timmerman, and Miss Nancy Hawks.

CITY OF BETTER LIVING

For many years hundreds of families from all parts of America have come to the Sunshine City to make their homes. They have selected St. Petersburg because of its ideal combination of climate and living conditions.

This sunny city, situated between Tampa Bay and the Gulf of Mexico, has an air-conditioned climate with few extremes of heat or cold. Splendid schools and churches, beautiful parks and playgrounds, all kinds of outdoor fun, real hospitality and friendliness, moderate living costs. For illustrated booklets write J. M. Davenport, Chamber of Commerce.

Weddings and Engagements

MISS Dorothy Frances Webster, daughter of Commodore Edward M. Webster, USCG-Ret., and Mrs. Webster, was married to Mr. Igor A. Ansoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Ansoff of New York City, 1 Oct., at Walter Reed Memorial Chapel, Washington, D. C. Chaplain LeRoy Raley officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, now a Federal Communications Commissioner, the bride wore a gown of white slipper satin with full train and rows of seed pearls around the scalloped neckline and at the wrists of the long sleeves. Her veil was of silk illusion under a lace mantiller, brought by her father from a Convent in Spain, which was held to her head by the lace wired into a crown. Her flowers were three large white orchids and a dozen small ones sent from Hawaii.

Mrs. Edward Webster, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Betsy Lent and Mrs. D. G. Leslie. Little Miss Nancy Webster, two-and-one-half year old niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Mr. Frederick D. Stockton, of Providence, R. I., was best man, and ushers were Mr. Edward Webster, brother of the bride, and Messrs. Anthony Vandino, Phillip Eddy, D. G. Leslie, and Arnold A. Ulin.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Chevy Chase Women's Club.

The bride attended the Connecticut College for Women, New London, and Brown University Graduate School, Providence, R. I.

Mr. Ansoff was graduated at Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, N. J., and at present is getting his Ph. D. in Applied Mathematics at Brown University. He was a Lieutenant (jg) in the Navy during the war.

After a wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains, the couple will reside in Los Angeles, Calif.

Miss Patty Shea, daughter of Mrs. Marguerite Dodson Shea of Indianapolis, Ind., was married to Col. Lamont Saxton, USA, son of Mrs. Louis M. Saxton of Washington, D. C., 11 Sept. at Central Christian Church, Indianapolis. Dr. William A. Shullenberger officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by Mr. George W. Shea of Whiting, wore a white satin gown and cathedral veil of illusion held by a Juliet cap of lace and seed pearls studded with orange blossoms. Her jewelry was a strand of pearls, and her bouquet was a cascade of white chrysanthemums.

Maid of honor was Miss Joan Sink, and attendants were Mrs. Charles Buenagel, Mrs. Louis M. Saxton, Jr., the Misses Sara Alice McIntosh, Jane Albrecht, Mary Graydon, and Dorothy Tucker, and Mesdames Clayton Shull, William Frobenius, Robert Hinnell, and Charles Kelley.

A late Autumn wedding is planned.

Capt. E. T. Short, USN, Commander Florida Group, Atlantic Reserve Fleet, Green Cove Springs, Fla., and Mrs. Short announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Evelyn, to Ens. Edwin C. Paul, CEC, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Paul, Jr., of Morrisville, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Correno Collada, of New York City, announce the engagement of their daughter, Dulce, to 2d Lt. James Webster Dingeman, USA, son of Col. and Mrs. Ray Dingeman, of Ft. Baker, Calif.

Miss Collada was graduated from Centenary Junior College, Hackettstown, N. J. She is now a Senior at Sarah Lawrence College, Bronxville, N. Y., where she majors in International Relations.

Lieutenant Dingeman was graduated from the U. S. Military Academy in the Class of 1948, and at present is stationed at Ft. Riley, Kans.

The wedding will take place 23 Dec., at the Cadet Chapel, West Point, N. Y.

The engagement has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. James Wilton Peters of Spring Valley, Md., and formerly of Bristol, R. I., of their daughter, Miss Janet Peters, to Ens. Richard Steven Gardiner, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Gardiner of Daytona Beach, Fla. The bride-elect is an alumna of Skidmore College.

Miss Mary Perkins Traugott, daughter of Mr. Albert Maser Traugott and the late Mrs. Traugott, has chosen 23 Oct. as the date of her marriage to Lt. Townsend Brown, USN, of Old Lyme, Conn., son of Mrs. Samuel Robbins Brown of Coronado, Calif., and the late Mr. Brown.

OFFICERS OF THE ARMY!

The ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL began two weeks ago, publication of the first Promotion List of officers of the Army compiled under the provisions of the new law (Officer Personnel Act of 1947). Last week we published the Promotion List for Lieutenant Colonels. This week, beginning on page 132, we print the Promotion List for permanent Majors, and in the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL of October 9 we will print the Promotion List for Medical, Dental, Veterinary Corps, Chaplains Corps and Professors. Providing official compilation and checking has been completed, the lists for Captains and Lieutenants will follow.

Inasmuch as future selections will be made from these lists and that by reference to them you will be able to determine the relative position of those selected and those not selected it is important that you preserve these issues for reference.

If you are not a subscriber enter your subscription now. If your subscription is about to expire send us your renewal so that you will not miss any issues. Order promptly—the shortage of paper necessitates our limiting each issue to orders in hand.

"UNITED STATES AT WAR"

• A limited number of copies of the Army and Navy Journal's historic volumes, "United States At War" is still available. This series, the first volume of which was published 7 December 1942 with succeeding volumes each year until the War's end, forms a complete history of World War II in authoritative articles written by Military, Naval and civilian leaders actually in charge of the operations in the active theaters and at home. Profusely illustrated, they merit a place in every well balanced library.

A small number of each of the volumes is ready for distribution at $5.00 per copy in paper binding and $6.00 in cloth binding. (Copies of Volume I are available only in paper binding.)

WHAT ABOUT RETIREMENT?—Are you one of the many who picture a comfortable home in a mild climate—a couple of acres of good land with room for a garden, a small orange grove and other tropical fruits? If so, DeSoto Acres, ten minutes from downtown Sarasota yet outside the city limits, is made to order for you. Prices begin at $785. You can make a start with a 10% down payment and pay the balance at $15 per month. The smart thing is to buy now while prices are low and have the kind of place you have hoped for when you retire. Among our purchasers are many now living in the Washington area, also a number of Army and Navy personnel nearing retirement, who after seeing for themselves the 2-acre, restricted homesites in DeSoto Acres have purchased and are busy with plans to lick the high cost of living and get a lot of fun out of life when they retire. DeSoto Acres is a 1,200-acre portion of the Van Dame Estate. For descriptive folder, write DESOTO ACRES, P. O. BOX 1544, SARASOTA, FLORIDA.

FINANCEFinancial Digest

Although Federal steps to curb inflation—raising of cash reserve requirements of member banks of the Federal Reserve System and restrictions on installment credits—have been in effect for two weeks, bank loans for commercial and industrial purposes during the last half of September have been at a rate in excess of August when loans of this type passed the $650 million mark.

Federal Reserve System support purchases of U. S. Government bonds sold by insurance companies and other non-bank investors, heavy in August, have continued heavy in the first half of this month, according to a report of the Federal Reserve Board, which says that System sales of short-term Government securities both to banks and others were also large, leaving the total portfolio of Government securities little changed.

Real estate and consumer loans continue to expand, despite the newly-imposed installment credit restrictions. Bank holdings of Government securities were little changed in September, despite the retirement for cash of about $400 million of bank-owned Government bonds on 15 Sept.

Interest rates showed little change in September, following a slight rise in short-term money market rates in August. Common stocks showed some weakness, but prices of high-grade corporate and municipal bonds changed only slightly, with new issues of the latter eagerly snapped up both by insurance companies and individual investors.

Private Rice attended Washington schools at various times and was a member of Troop 32, Boy Scouts of America there. He was in-

MERCHANT MARINEMerchant Marine

Charters of Government-owned ships to steamship companies owning no U. S. Flag vessels have been ordered cancelled on 30 Nov. by the U. S. Maritime Commission in a drastic policy decision rendered this week. A further amplification of the Commission's policy is expected immediately which would set up a ratio of actual charters to actual American flag ships owned by individual operators. Confined to ships only in foreign commerce, the cancellation order will affect 13 companies that charter 54 ships.

A decision to follow procedures utilized in commercial channels governing all phases of marine insurance, instead of relying upon government support, is reported to have been made by the Economic Cooperative Administration (ERP). Insurers of ECA cargoes will not receive financial support from the Administration, but rather will have to look to agreements used by exporters and importers in regular commercial trades.

Abolishment of American President Lines Shanghai, China, office in favor of centralized direction of Far Eastern trade from the home office in San Francisco, Calif., has been announced by George Killion, company president, who said the move will result in substantial reduction in the company's administrative expense while providing for a more flexible program for serving far eastern trade.

ducted into the Army at Ft. McPherson, Ga., in the summer of 1943, completed basic training at Ft. McClellan, Ala., and went overseas as an infantry replacement, later joining the 339th Regiment, 85th Infantry Division. He was serving with that unit in Italy at the time he was killed in action in the drive from Cassino to the Anzio Beachhead. Private Rice was decorated with the Silver Star for gallantry in the above action.

Officiating at the graveside services was Chaplain (Maj. Gen.) Luther D. Miller, Army Chief of Chaplains, Troops from the Ceremonial Company, 3d Infantry Regiment, composed the firing party.

General Rice is presently Chief of the Army and Air Force Troop Information and Education Division at the Pentagon.

Col. Howard T. Wickert, USA

Col. Howard T. Wickert, MC, USA, age 60, died at Walter Reed General Hospital, Washington, 21 Sept.; he had been a patient since August, 1946. Funeral services were held 24 Sept. in the Memorial Chapel at the Army Medical Center, followed by graveside services at Arlington National Cemetery.

Born 24 Oct. 1888, in Bingen, Pa., Colonel Wickert was graduated from the following schools: Jefferson Medical College, Pa., 1914, earning M.D. degree; Medical Field Service School, 1923; Command and General Staff School, 1931; Army War College, 1938; Chemical Warfare School, Field Officers Course, 1938.

Colonel Wickert entered the Army as a first lieutenant, Officers Reserve Corps in 1917 and served during World War I with the British Army as Medical Officer and later with American Hospitals in France. During World War II, Colonel Wickert held various commands, at one time being Commanding Officer of the Army Medical School at Ft. Sam Houston, Texas.

While with the British Army in 1917, Colonel Wickert won the Order of the British Empire. He also holds the Legion of Merit decoration.

Colonel Wickert is survived by his widow, Mrs. Helen B. Wickert, of Silver Spring, Md.; three sons, John H. Wickert, former Lieutenant, USN; Thomas S. Wickert, and Captain Howard T. Wickert, Jr., now on duty in Palestine; and a daughter, Mrs. O. B. Beasley of Ft. Benning, Ga.

Col. Malcolm R. Cox, USA-Ret.

Col. Malcolm R. Cox, USA-Ret., 62, died at Letterman General Hospital, San Francisco, Calif., 20 June 1948. Interment was in Presidio National Cemetery.

A native of Oregon, Colonel Cox was graduated at Oregon College and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He was also graduated from the Field Artillery School and the Command and General Staff School.

Colonel Cox entered the Army as a private in 1904 and moved up through the various grades to Colonel and was retired in that rank on 30 June 1946.

He was one of the Army's outstanding motor experts, and served two tours as an Inspector at the Field Artillery School, as well as on the General Staff. Among his decorations was the Legion of Merit.

Alfred P. Sandus

Alfred P. (Shoes) Sandus, 65, noted in Navy circles as a boxing coach and trainer of "Chippy" Crews at Great Lakes Naval Training Center, died of pneumonia at the Naval Hospital, 20 Sept. He had been ill only two days.

A resident of North Chicago, Mr. Sandus had lived a retired life for the last two years, ending many years of service as a cobbler at the Naval Station.

Mr. Sandus grew up aboard a ship. While some boys were sliding down cellar doors he hammered his mother's pots and pans in the galley of his father's two-master, the Jenny Mullen, out of Chicago. Before he reached his teens he had experienced a shipwreck, the Jenny Mullen having gone aground and become wrecked at Charlevoix, Mich.

He learned the shoemaking business in a Chicago shoe factory and by the age of 19 he was well known as a bantamweight boxer in and around Chicago, winning most of his fights.

At the age of 20 he joined the Navy and while aboard the USS Alabama he became interested in crew racing and as coxswain was a member of the Alabama winning crew.

He was transferred to the USS Wisconsin and it was while a member of that crew that he received the injury which cost him the loss of his right leg. While in West Australia the stern line from a collier to the Wisconsin became fouled in a launch propeller and "Shoes," as he had been known since his enlistment, went overboard under water to clear it. For some unknown reason the engine of the boat was started and Sandus' leg was caught in the propeller. He was taken to the Cavite hospital, where amputation in 1906 became necessary.

His discharge from the Navy did not keep Sandus from its environs. He took a job as cobbler in the Ships Service in 1911 and remained as the No. 1 cobbler until the close of World War II.

While at Great Lakes he trained the country's champion crews from 1922 to 1927. He trained such fighters as Kid Bernstein, Irish Jack Smith, Irish Landen and others. He was one of the most widely-known men at the station because of his many contacts with the sailors over the many years.

Surviving are his wife and two sons, Alfred, Jr., of Santa Monica, Calif., and Jack Sandus, a sailor, stationed at Boston; a sister, Mrs. Mabel Williams of Chicago; and two brothers, Howard, Waukegan, and Arthur Sandus of Fort Worth, Texas.

He was buried in Sand Lake Cemetery, Lake Villa, Ill., 23 Sept.

ROA Urges Pay Boosts

Asserting that high caliber personnel are being driven out of the Services by the high-cost-of-living, National Leaders of the Reserve Officers Association this week urged Congress to revise the pay scale for personnel of the National Military Establishment.

Concluding a two-day meeting at National Headquarters in Washington of the National Executive Committee, the ROA leaders also:

1. Urged restoration of the $1,500 tax exemption for Service salaries which had been in effect during World War II, and
2. Called upon the Army and Air Force to put into effect a Congressionally-authorized pay for Reservist training, and asked Congress to supplement appropriations to permit the full-scale application of this law which was passed by the 80th Congress.

Comdr. John P. Bracken, in asking indorsement for pay increases, said many officers of the Army, Navy, and Air Force are leaving the Services for private industry "so they can make a living."

"There have been no real pay raises for the Armed Forces since 1908," he said, pointing out that living costs are many times what they were when basic pay scales were established 40 years ago.

The $1,500 Service Pay income tax exemption went into effect in 1942, but lapsed this year.
